Data Swap EP

Today we proudly present our newest release from Nutownproject – the 'Data Swap EP' including Xentrix remixes! We probably don't have to tell you much about these awesome artists from Belgium. Nutownproject has been showing his talent on various releases such as on Einmaleins or Resopal. Xentrix is known for his own label Kroma and played on various events as DJ such as I love techno. So in our opinion, their work basically speaks for themselves!

The EP starts off with an rocking techno track, followed by two great remixes made by Xentrix. All of these tracks are built for the dancefloor and might turn techno heads into screaming dancing machines. If you love techno, this one is for you!

Nutownproject

Born Belgian in 1978, most likely feeling like a citizen of the world, Jaycee got involved with music in the early 90's, first buying records like every kids of that age but not just anykind of music, it was Belgian first mainstream electronic music. New beat! A few more years and records away, got his first set of decks and joined his friends of the Dhc, first underground techno movement in his very own city of Belgium, Liege. They threw gigs in warehouses and well know Belgian club 'La Chapelle'.

That was the best way for him to learn how to work the decks and later the crowd. That's how he shared decks with respected talents from all over Europe like Oscar Mulero, Ben Sims, Marco Bailey, Stanny Fransen to name a few. 1998, life somehow brought Jaycee over America, Miami. Jaycee discovered a brand new dimension to music, melodies. American house music that was! House was a perfect fit for such a life change. A year later, moved to London and shaped his taste for house music and took music technologies courses at the university as long as starting producing beats and perfecting his DJ skills through parties in European countries.
